BUILDING FORM

ARCHITECTURAL DESCRIPTION

see continuation sheet

Describe architectural features. Evaluate the characteristics of this building in terms of other buildings within the community.

- * The English Revival style house at 96 Mill Street is a side-gabled, 1 1/2-story, 3x3-bay form with a prominent steeply pitched gabled entry porch; gabled dormers mark the front slope of the roof and a stout brick chimney rises from the south side elevation; a shed dormer on the rear slope enlarges the upper floor
- * Most detail is found in the entry porch in the form of arched brick surround with keystones for the center entry and flanking arched windows
- * Windows appear to be modern double-hung replacement sash
- * The center entry has an arched door with 9 panes arranged in a circle
- * The English Revival style is relatively rare in Groton with other examples at 29 St. James Avenue (St. James Catholic Church, MHC #247) and at 297 Main Street (Sacred Heart Parish Hall, MHC #196)
